Texts and Additional Materials

Required Texts

Lesikar’s Business Communication: Connecting in a Digital World, 13e & Connect Plus by Kathryn Rentz and Paula Lentz

Mastering Business Communication at Work: How to Lead, Manage, and Influence People by Ethan F. Becker and Jon Wortmann

You will also need a video/audio recording device such as a webcam, tablet, or smartphone and an accessible computer with Internet access to upload and view videos via YouTube. Some cameras, tablets, and phones have video recording capability, but make sure that the quality is adequate. Your videos must have clear audio and video. You will be setting your videos to “unlisted” meaning that only your classmates and I will have access to them.

Always save your work. In the event that technology fails (D2L, YouTube, etc.), you are responsible for having a backup file of your work to resubmit on request.

Attendance Policy

Although points are not given for viewing class lectures, reading text chapters, or viewing assigned videos, they are not considered optional. In order to get the most out of the class and perform your best on assignments, you will need to access all the materials available to you. Not submitting assignments or accessing online class materials will be considered non-attendance, and it will be recommended that you drop the course.

Letter grades will be assigned according to the standard scale. Grades will be rounded up at .5 (89.5 becomes 90)

90-100% = A
80-89% = B
70-79% = C
60-69% = D
Below 60% = F

Please do your best and be concerned about your grade throughout the entire semester. No additional bonus points will be given at the end of the semester to raise your grade. Please be responsible throughout the semester to follow the schedule, be aware of due dates, and pay attention to any correspondence I send by e-mail. It is each student’s responsibility to know what is due and when it is due.

Description of Course Requirements:

Assignments are worth varying points as indicated in the grades section. The point values increase as you progress through the course and improve your skills. Throughout the course your assignments will include the following:

- video recording and self-assessment of a conversation
- written transcript of current outgoing voicemail message and transcript of improved message
- audio recording of professional voicemail response
- mini meeting presentation with visual of choice
- persuasive proposal presentation with outline, sources, and handout
- mock interview presentation with written prepared interview question responses
- informative report presentation with outline, sources, and PowerPoint slideshow
- written critiques of peer presentations

Presentations

You must record your presentations with a reliable device such as a webcam. You will then upload your presentations to YouTube and assign them as “Unlisted.” This will ensure that no one will be able to view your presentation unless they have access to your video link through our course website. You will then place the link in the appropriate discussion board so that I and the students in your group have access to it. Please make sure that your equipment works and that you have your YouTube account set up well in advance of a presentation deadline.

Notes may be used to help guide your presentations, but if you read directly from notes, a computer screen, or any other means, you will receive a zero.

Consider your voice characteristics as well as non-verbal body language. These will be evaluated in your final presentation scores. You should also stand up during your presentations except for the mock interview. Presentations are generally given while standing, so it is best to prepare and practice in this manner.

Written Assignments

All written assignments (outlines, reference pages, PPT, etc.) will be submitted to the appropriate D2L dropbox folder. Any assignments uploaded to a dropbox folder (Word and PowerPoint assignments) may be submitted multiple times until the due date, meaning, if you submit an assignment and decide to make a change, you may resubmit the assignment as long as the due date has not passed. The last submission is the one that will receive the grade.

Peer Critiques

In the discussion board, you will be assigned a group for the persuasive proposal presentation and the informative report presentation. After each presentation is submitted, you will critique five members of your group. The critique forms will be available on D2L for each presentation. If, for any reason, fewer than five members of your group submit a presentation, you may go to another group to complete your requirement of five. Each critique will be worth five points for a total of 25 points per presentation. Please be thoughtful and considerate with your comments. The purpose of the critiques is to give the presenter multiple perspectives on his/her performance. Constructive criticism is expected, but the goal is to assess strengths and weaknesses so your group members will know what they are doing well and what they need to improve on.

Quizzes

There will be no exams for this course, but you will complete eight 10-point quizzes. Quizzes can be accessed on the Connect Plus website and will cover material from readings, lectures, and assigned videos. These quizzes are on the course schedule, and the due dates may not be altered. Each quiz will be open for a period of seven days. If you miss a quiz, the quiz cannot be made up and will not be reopened after it has closed.

Make-up Policy

If for any reason you cannot submit an assignment on time, you must notify me prior to the due date. There is no guarantee that an assignment can be made up. Unless you have made special arrangements with me or have an emergency situation, once a deadline has passed, assignments will receive a deduction of one letter grade per day late. Once the final assignment due date has passed, the class is complete. Please do not e-mail me regarding end of semester extra credit opportunities. As mentioned before, be concerned about your grade from the beginning of the semester.

Feedback

Your written and oral assignments will receive detailed feedback. I would strongly recommend viewing your feedback so that you will know what your strengths and weaknesses are and what you should improve for upcoming assignments. For written assignments, the feedback will be uploaded to the dropbox folder where you submitted the original document. For presentation feedback, the feedback will be uploaded to one of the accompanying assignments submitted in a dropbox folder. For example, if you submitted an outline with your presentation, your presentation feedback will be uploaded where you submitted your outline. I will post the location once feedback has been completed.

EMAIL ETIQUETTE

This class is a business course and a good place to practice using professional business communications. In keeping with that objective, here are some expectations about the emails you exchange with your professors this semester and with your colleagues, supervisors, and potential employers in the future:

- Use a subject line to explain the purpose of your communication. If your recipient is one of your instructors, be sure to indicate the class and section in which you are enrolled.
- Include a salutation in your communication, and use the highest level of courtesy in addressing the individual. Examples: “Hello, Mr. Smithers;” “Dear Ms. Simpson;” or “Hi, Dr. Flanders.” Hint: Avoid, “Yo, Lisa!” Pay attention to their response. If your recipient says, “call me Ned” or if he signs his emails to you as “Ned,” that response is a clue that you may call him “Ned.”
- Don’t assume a position of informality in your business email. Time and relationship-building efforts can guide when you may “informalize” your business relationships. In some cases, it may never happen.
- Provide relevant information and actionable items. Think about what you want the receiver to do after receiving your message? Do not just vent or express concern; instead, communicate information and request an action. Put yourself on the other side of the communication and think about how you would like to be approached.
- Be careful about including quotations and sayings in your signature block. Think about the impression your message sends to someone who doesn’t know you, and be judicious. In most instances, save the quotations for your emails with friends on your personal email account.
- Sign off on your emails with “Sincerely,” “Best regards,” etc.
- Basic questions to ask yourself before you hit “Send:” Would I write this email if I was trying to impress my boss? If I were the recipient of this email, would the email cause me to feel angry, annoyed, or cooperative? (Hint: Aim for cooperative.)
- Above all, since this is a business communications class, all communication should be on a professional level, which means to be cautious of your content, correctness and tone in addition to the above aspects.
